GENERAL SYMPTOMS OF THE DISEASE

Chronic fatigue syndrome shares symptoms with many other disorders. Fatigue, for instance, is found in hundreds of illnesses, and 10% to 25% of all patients who visit general practitioners complain of prolonged fatigue. The nature of the symptoms, however, can help clinicians differentiate CFS from other illnesses.

PRIMARY SYMPTOMS

As the name chronic fatigue syndrome suggests, this illness is accompanied by fatigue. Its a severe, incapacitating fatigue that isnt improved by bed rest and that may be exacerbated by physical or mental activity. Its an all-encompassing fatigue that results in a dramatic decline in both activity level and stamina.

People with CFS function at a significantly lower level of activity than they were capable of prior to becoming ill. The illness results in a substantial reduction in occupational, personal, social or educational activities.

Cognitive dysfunction, including impaired memory or concentration postexertional malaise lasting more than 24 hours (exhaustion and increased symptoms) following physical or mental exercise

unrefreshing sleep

joint pain (without redness or swelling)

persistent muscle pain

headaches of a new type or severity tender cervical or axillary lymph nodes

sore throat

OTHER COMMON SYMPTOMS

In addition to the eight primary defining symptoms of CFS, a number of other symptoms have been reported by some CFS patients. The frequency of occurrence of these symptoms varies among patients.

These symptoms include:

irritable bowel, abdominal pain, nausea, diarrhea or bloating

chills and night sweats

brain fog

chest pain

shortness of breath
chronic cough
visual disturbances (blurring, sensitivity to light, eye pain or dry eyes) allergies or sensitivities to foods, alcohol, odors, chemicals, medications or noise difficulty maintaining upright position (orthostatic instability, irregular heartbeat, dizziness, balance problems or fainting) psychological problems (depression, irritability, mood swings, anxiety, panic attacks) jaw pain
weight loss or gain
